HARRY DALTON — EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT-GENERAL MANAGER

The Milwaukee Brewers have been one of the finest teams in the major leagues the past four seasons, and Harry Dalton has been one of the key reasons.

Since Brewer President Allan H. (Bud) Selig brought Dalton aboard on November 20, 1977 as Executive Vice President-General Manager, the Brewers have compiled the American League's third best record in that span and the major league's fourth best mark overall. All that and more from a club which never finished better than ten games under .500 before Dalton took the reins.

Only Baltimore (351-236, .598) and New York (351-241, .593) in the American League and Cincinnati (337-255, .569) in the National League have better won-loss records than Milwaukee in the past four seasons, as the Brewers have put together an impressive .566 winning percentage in that span — 336 victories and 258 losses. Milwaukee's performance in 1981 was no exception.

After finishing third with a 93-69 record in 1978, second with a club record 95-66 mark in 1979 and third with an 86-76 record in 1980, Milwaukee finished with the best record in the Eastern Division last year — 62-47 — and made the post-season playoffs for the first time in the franchise's twelve year history.

A clever tradesman, Dalton has improved the Brewers via the trade route during his reign, and he made perhaps the most important trade of his career on December 12, 1980 when he acquired Rollie Fingers, Pete Vuckovich and Ted Simmons from St. Louis in exchange for Sixto Lezcano, Lary Sorensen, David Green and David LaPoint.

Fingers filled the Brewers' biggest need in the bullpen, walking away with the top relief honors (Rolaids and The Sporting News) and the American League's Cy Young and Most Valuable Player Awards, the first reliever in history to win the latter two awards in the same season. Vuckovich topped the American League in winning percentage (.778) as he compiled a 14-4 record, and Simmons slammed 14 home runs and drove in 61 runs, while ranking third in the league with 12 game winning runs batted in.

Other important additions to join the Brewers thanks to Dalton include Ben Oglivie, Gorman Thomas and Jim Slaton, all key members of Milwaukee's recent success. Ironically, Thomas and Slaton left Milwaukee via the trade route, but were returned to the roster by Dalton.

Improving his ballclubs via the trade market is a familiar route to Dalton, who has acquired players like Frank Robinson, Mike Cueller, Pat Dobson and Don Buford while with Baltimore and Nolan Ryan and Bobby Bonds while with California.

Dalton gives his staff much of the credit for his winning tradition. His team of front office personnel — "The Dalton Gang" — include Ray Poitevint, Director of Player Procurement; Walter Shannon, Assistant General Manager; Ray Scarborough, Special Assignments Scout; Walter Youse, East Coast Scouting Supervisor; Dee Fondy, Special Assistant to the General Manager and Bruce Manno, the Coordinator of Minor League Operations. In addition, Dalton recently added another key baseball mind to his team — San Bando, who retired as a player following the 1981 season, to become a Special Assistant to the General Manager.

Dalton began a 29 year career in baseball with Baltimore in 1953, moving rapidly up the ladder from Assistant Farm Director to Vice President of Player Personnel in 18 years with the Orioles organization. In his six seasons at the helm, Baltimore won four pennants and two world championships, capturing the American League flag in 1966, '69, '70 and '71 and the World Title in 1966 and '70. The culmination of his efforts earned him the Major League Executive of the Year honor in 1970. Establishing a .603 winning percentage at Baltimore, Dalton then joined California, where he spent six seasons as the Angels Executive Vice President & General Manager before coming to Milwaukee.

Dalton, his wife, Patricia and their daughters, Kim, 19, Cindy, 16, and Debbie, 14, reside in the northwest Milwaukee suburb of River Hills, Wisconsin. A graduate of Amherst College in 1950, Dalton served as a First Lieutenant in the Air Force, earning a bronze star for outstanding work as a combat press officer during his 37 month tour of duty. While in high school and college, he was a sportswriter for the Springfield (MA) Daily News.

MILWAUKEE BREWERS WITH COLLEGE AFFILIATIONS

Major League Baseball conducted a survey of major league players attending college and the Brewers fared quite well. In 1981, Milwaukee had 21 players listed as having attended college, which was third most in the majors. A closer look at the 1982 roster, shows an increase, which unofficially is better than any other club in baseball. Thirty players on the Brewer Spring Training roster had attended college, with eight earning a degree.

The Milwaukee Brewers logo is beginning it's fifth year of existence, following its selection from over 2,000 entries in a month long contest that was open to the public, both amateur and professional, in October and November of '77. Tom Meindel, an Art History student at the University of Wisconsin - Eau Claire, designed the logo and earned the $2,000 first prize. The logo combines the lower case letters "m" and "b", the club's initials, to form a baseball mitt.

HITTING FOR THE CYCLE

Only two Milwaukee Brewers have ever hit for the cycle in a game, with Mike Hegan doing it back in 1976 and Charlie Moore accomplishing the feat in 1980. Hegan managed to hit a double, homer and a triple off Detroit's Mark "The Bird" Fidrych on September 3, 1976 in Tiger Stadium and completed the task by hitting a single off Bill Laxton. He finished the day with four hits in five at bats including a walk, scoring twice and driving in six runs. Moore hit for the cycle on October 1, 1980 at California, singling off Ed Halicki, homering off Chris Knapp, tripling off Dave Schuler and finally doubling off Mark Clear. He also went four-for-five in the game, with three runs scored and three RBI, adding two stolen bases, capping his best single game performance in his career.
